Professional background

Dr Erich Ting is a consultant psychiatrist and a Fellow of the Royal Australian and New Zealand College of Psychiatrists (RANZCP). He is also a Faculty Fellow of Adult Psychiatry, member of the Section of Neurostimulation and Perinatal Psychiatry, and an international member of both the American Psychiatric Association (APA) and Royal College of Psychiatrists, UK (RCPsych). He provides outpatient care in his private consulting suites and inpatient care at Belmont Private Hospital.

Dr Ting has extensive experience in both public and private mental health services. He also completed a Certificate of Advanced Training in Adult Psychiatry, which is a subspecialty training of psychiatric disorders in the adult population. Dr Ting has also undertaken additional training in Transcranial Magnetic Stimulation (TMS) and is an accredited TMS practitioner at Belmont Private Hospital. He can provide outpatient TMS services for depression.

Dr Ting completed Bachelor of Engineering with First Class Honours at Monash University. He then obtained his medical degree at the University of Queensland, before specialising in psychiatry. Dr Ting is also a Senior Lecturer with the University of Queensland School of Medicine and has published his research internationally. He also participates in education of medical students and psychiatry trainees.

In addition to English, Dr Ting speaks fluent Mandarin, Taiwanese, Foochow and Malay. Dr Ting's priority is to tailor his approach according to each individual and to optimise patients' quality of living so they can work towards their life goals.
